Avvo is an independent attorney rating organization that rates 97% of all attorneys in America. Its ratings are unbiased and earned by an attorney only through a stringent review process by legal professionals which incorporates client reviews, peer endorsements and a number of other factors. It cannot be purchased through dues or memberships.

Avvo introduced the Avvo rating system nearly a decade ago and it has become the industry standard for rating attorneys in all 50 states. The rating system ranges from 1 (use extreme caution) to 10 (superb) and was created to reward attorneys who exhibit exceptional legal service to their clients and their industry. Avvo has quickly become one of the leading websites where consumers go to find information about attorneys.

Avvo's comprehensive rating system carefully reviews a lawyer's background and overall profile, which includes years in practice, disciplinary history, professional achievements and industry recognition. Avvo performs rankings in 19 different legal categories and periodically collects background data from multiple sources, including state bar associations, court records, lawyer websites, and other pertinent information.
